

Congratulations to the Japan Endocrine Society on celebrating their wonderful 100th Anniversary!

The JES can be proud of their significant contributions to advancing the science, training and patient care for endocrine disorders with a global impact.

The professional members of the JES are at the forefront of endocrine discovery and bringing optimized care to so many patients with disorders of the endocrine system.

We are all immensely proud of your continued achievements and are so privileged to count you as valued colleagues and leaders in the field.

Your exemplary professional standards are a beacon of inspiration worldwide and we wish you another 100 years of continued success and fulfillment of your noble mission

Shlomo Melmed M.D.
Department of Medicine and Pituitary Center,
Cedars-Sinai Health Sciences University,
Los Angeles, California, USA.